Provision and use of the paging service provided by PageOne Communications

- While PageOne Communications shall use its reasonable endeavours to maintain the paging service, it does not guarantee that the service will be fault free or that it will be continuously available.
- Message delivery associated with the paging service may be impaired or adversely affected by physical or topographical features (including buildings, underpasses and tunnels) and by atmospheric conditions or other causes of interference, man made or natural. The service may not be available in areas that are sparsely populated.
- PageOne Communications reserves the right to modify its paging service at any time and may suspend the service from time to time during any technical failure, modification or maintenance of the telecommunications systems.
- Intellectual property rights in all software used in connection with the provision of the paging service remain the property of PageOne Communications Limited or its licensors.
- To ensure availability of the networks to all its users, PageOne Communications may apply message transmission restrictions from time to time.
- There is no charge for receiving a paging message. Calls made to message pagers connected to PageOne Communications' paging network are charged to the caller at 42.5p per call (inc VAT); calls to numeric pagers are charged at 25.5p (inc VAT). Payphones, mobile phones and other networks utilise prevailing rates and may be subject to network availability. All prices are correct at date of publication; details of paging tariffs are available by emailing PageOne Communications at customerservices@pageone.co.uk.

PageOne Communications Limited does not accept any liability arising out of use or attempted use of its paging service (whether such liability arises due to negligence or for any other reason) for loss of profits, loss of sales, loss of or damage to business, loss of or damage to reputation, loss of contracts, loss of customers, loss of, or loss of use of, any software or data, loss of use of any computer or other equipment or plant, wasted management or other staff time, losses or liabilities under or in relation to any contract, or indirect, special or consequential loss or damage.

This document does not form part of any contract. It is subject to change without notice. The information contained herein is correct at the date of publication; however, it may be subject to subsequent revision and services may be modified, supplemented or withdrawn.
